

Yuck 'n Yum

Summer 10

Jonathan Baxter - Connor Clark - Sean Duffield - Sanna Dyker - Ross Hamilton Frew - Ryan Hays - Emma McIntyre - Norrie Millar -
Selena Mowat - Twelfth of Never - Janie Nicoll - Simon Reekie - Yvonne Stewart - The Unknown Artist -

Edible Wearable - Anthony Zinonos -

Plus! Ben Robinson interviews Frank Sidebottom

www.yucknyum.com

Hannah Maclure Centre
HM

UNIVERSITY of
ABERTAY DUNDEE

SWEET SWEET PASTRY

180g BUTTER (CUBED)
100g ICING SUGAR
300g PLAIN FLOUR
GRATED LEMON ZEST
1 EGG YOLK
1/2 TSP SALT

euch, uuurghhh, bleurgh

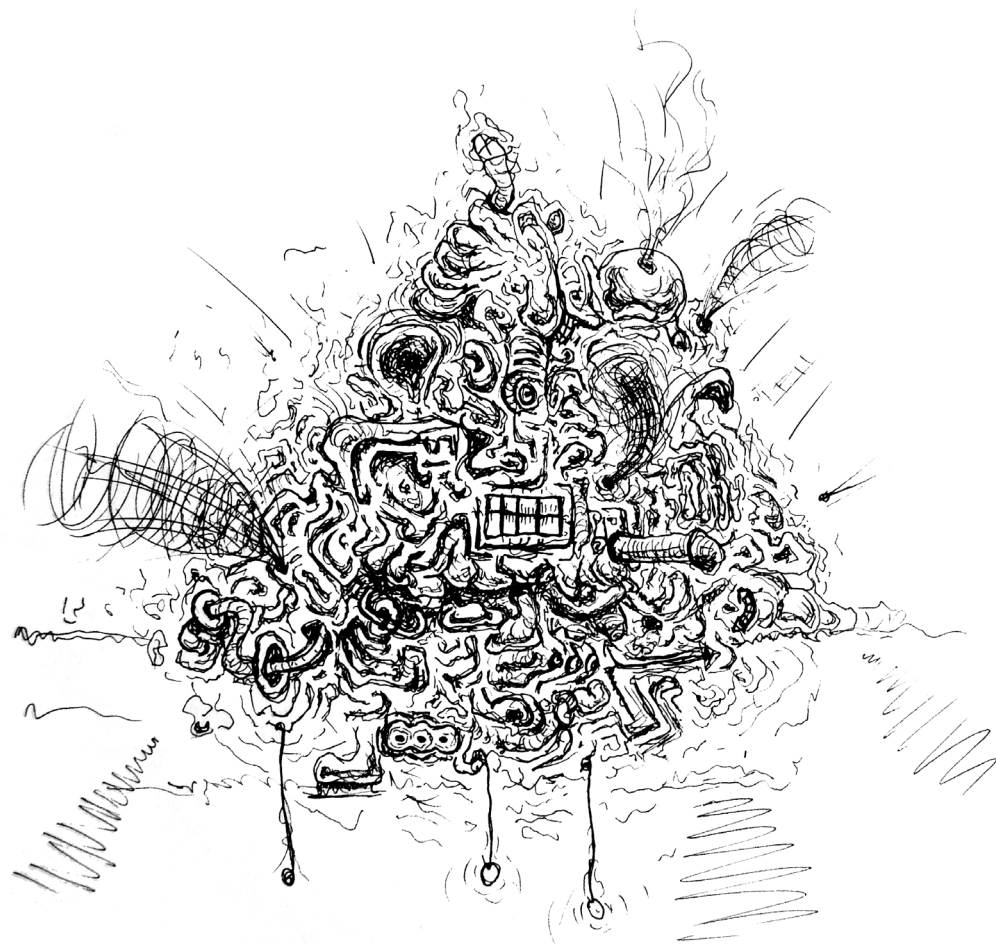

mmmmmm, aaaaaah, nimnimnim

Yuck 'n Yum

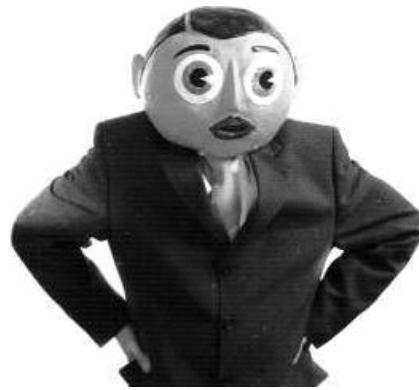

CONTENTS

- 4 Ross Hamilton Frew : lineslineslines
- 5 Yvonne Stewart : talk talking to talk
- 6 Ben Robinson : an interview with Frank Sidebottom
- 8 Connor Clark : goblins
- 9 The Unknown Artist : Oor Bubbles
- 10 Sean Duffield : Ol' Bessy
- 11 Anthony Zinonos : Hover Horse
- 12 Emma McIntyre : Packing In
- 13 Ryan Hays : Symbol No.1
- 14 Janie Nicoll : Freudian Slip
- 15 Selena Mowat : Stud Service for Approved Bitches
- 16 Jonathan Baxter : Words
- 18 Sanna Dyker : King of the Allotments
- 19 Twelfth of Never : Pretty Boy
- 20 Norrie Millar : Summer Lovin'
- 21 Simon Reekie : Untitled
- 22 Edible Wearable : Sweet Sweet Pastry

Cover by Paul Milne

you know it is, it really is:
an interview with Frank Sidebottom

A singular presence on the stand-up comedy and cabaret circuit, Frank Sidebottom can rightly be called an institution. His act takes in popular Manchester standards (his rendition of Love Will Tear Us Apart really is quite something), some traditional showbiz patter and also puppetry with his cardboard alter ego Little Frank, all performed by a man with a giant spherical papier-mâché head. Once seen, Frank will surely not be forgotten by anyone in a hurry. Emerging around the late eighties/early nineties Madchester music scene, he spent many years appearing on regional TV and treading the boards at northern comedy gigs. After making something of a comeback around the turn of the 21st century, Frank has recently performed in a few art spaces such as Tate Britain to great acclaim and a viewing of his routine by some as a form of outsider-performance art. In May this year Frank shocked his fans with the “bobbins news” that he has cancer, but this he has borne with characteristic valour. A self-portrait titled ‘me as me after chemotherapy’ was posted on eBay, raising £480 for Cancer Research, and in an exclusive Yuck ‘n Yum interview we learned all about the world according to Frank Sidebottom:

During your fantastic showbusiness career you have performed at the CHELSEA art space and even at Tate Britain. Do you consider yourself an artist?

 anyone can be for as little as a pound !!! that’s how much my felt-tip pens cost from the pound shop !

This year you’ll be playing shows across the world. Is there any place that you’re looking forward to the most?

 new york is ace,... but then so is the isle of man !

In June you’ll appear at Glasgow’s Puppet Cabaret festival. What can your audience expect?

 a medium rate of semi-professional puppetry,... as long as little frank (my ventrilloquist puppet) doesn't ruin it !

Do you ever argue with Little Frank when you're both on tour?

 don't be swept along,... he's only cardboard !

Who is your favourite artist?

 myself,... and paul macca and billy childish are quite good at painting too !

Are you planning any more TV appearances in the future?

* i'm planning loads,... it's just a case of if the telly companies are planning that too !

We all know how much you're looking forward to the world cup, but who do you think will win?

* in the ideal world,... it would be "timperley bigshorts f.c." (my sunday football team... but it will probably be 10 men from somewhere else !

During your long glittering showbusiness career what do you think have been the high points?

* meeting the queen was o.k.,... and supporting bros at wembley in front of 54,000 was quite good too !

Who would be your dream special guest on Timperley TV?

 ringo ,... (only joking !!! i mean paul!)

Yuck 'n Yum will be holding a karaoke contest for artists in September. What is your ultimate karaoke tune?

"see you later crocodile" (in swahilli)

Many thanks and all the best... Ben Robinson, Yuck 'n Yum and a big thank you to you ,... and all at yuck 'n yum

best regards

frank sidebottom

Having written the above, I add this image:

I add it for you because this zine is an 'art' zine. I add it for me because I have always been interested by these 'empty' images.

Looking out of the window I see a lawn strewn with dandelions. Yesterday my partner pulled the head off every dandelion she could see. Today I count 31 new dandelions on the lawn.

Words by Johnathan Baxter

Yesterday I finally got round to recycling everything I'd ever written since the age of 15. Bad and better poetry, diaries, travelogues, going nowhere essays etc. The paradox is that I began writing again today. When Ben asked for a submission I submitted.

Like all of us, who I am is a little uncertain. I know, of course, that I am more or less me: my fingers type these words, your fingers turn the page. But even 'we' are in dialogue. As the Buddhists say, we're co-arising.

Whether or not this interests you is not entirely out of my control. If I choose my words carefully, if I create a space for empathy, if I imagine myself reading these words once they've been written and published, then perhaps I can step across the boundary and become for us an interested reader. If I fail to sustain your interest, well, there's nothing more 'we' can do.

Two thoughts come to mind. 1. Duchamp: solicit nothing. 2. the phrase 'without thinking' – which references Dōgen.

